

CROWN PRINCE LOSES BATTLE

Had Planned to Break Force of Russian Army Before Winter Set In.

London, Eng., Oct. 31.—How the German crown prince failed in an attempt to shatter the strength of the Russian opposition, before winter set in, is told by the Petrograd correspondent of the Daily Mail. The crown prince had charge of the operations in which the Germans attempted to force a passage of the river Vistula. He intended to break the Russian center, reduce the fortress of Ivangorod and disorganize the army.

"For this plan, very large forces were assembled," the correspondent says. "The best Russian troops were allotted to the crown prince in the center. On the left wing, Gen. von Hindenburg commanded the Bavarians, while the Austrians were on the right wing. The central line was for the center to attack Ivangorod, while the wings would envelop and crush the Russians."

Prince Compelled to Give Way.
"The unexpected vigor of the Russian counter attack carried all before it. The crown prince's army gave way, abandoning much material and 28 heavy guns, which were bogged in the mud."

"All attempts to rally the Austro-German forces were in vain and on Tuesday the crown prince arrived at Radom, whence he had set out a fortnight before with such high hopes, beaten and a fugitive."

"He then tried to establish his army on the line from Jeddanko to Ila, with Radom as the center; but the vigor of the Russian cavalry pursuit prevented this. The Russians entered Radom next day and the pursuit continues."

Women Patrol Sentries Lines To Keep Soldiers From Being Flirted With

London, Eng., Oct. 31.—In order to help soldiers observe Lord Kitchener's injunction to be no more than coldly courteous to women, the National Union of Women Workers has undertaken the duty of patrolling the territory outside the sentry lines. The services of the women police is gladly accepted, since the army authorities complain that the soldiers are being lured from Lord Kitchener's chilly ideal by women camp followers. Not only young girls but the matured have been causing serious infractions of discipline at the camps, causing recruits to overstay leave and run the guard lines.

Meantime, an effort is made to increase camp attractions, such as concerts, and to provide other means of diverting the men.

The first police woman in London took her station the past week in the Old Bailey. Her special duty is to look after the cases of women and children. She is one of a corps being trained by Nina Boyle of the Women's Freedom League. The league has offered to provide female patrols for London's streets and parks in the interest of the proprietors, but its offer has not yet been accepted by the police department.

NAVY SILENCES GUNS ON SHORE

Germans Slightly Damage
British Ships; Casualties Are Slight.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—The British embassy today made public the following official report of naval operations on the coast of Belgium.
"The British naval flotilla has continued to support the allied left since the morning of October 27. The fire of the 12 inch guns has been brought to bear upon the German positions and batteries. Reports received from shore testify to the effect and accuracy of this fire and to its chilling character. The flank thus was thoroughly maintained Thursday and the day before. The enemy brought up heavy guns and replied vigorously to the fire of Admiral Hood's ships. Vessels received only trifling structural damage, however."

Fire From Shore Censured.
"Friday the opposition from shore practically ceased. The preponderance of naval gunnery seemed to be established. Casualties were very slight throughout, one shell exploded on the destroyer Falcon, killed one officer and eight men and wounded one officer and five men. One killed and several wounded are reported from the British and eight wounded from the Belgians. The enemy's submarines have been reported seeking opportunity to attack the bombarding ships, which are covered by British destroyers."

DOUBTS VALUE OF BIG CANNON

England Thinks It's Better to Transport Food than Great Howitzers.

London, Eng., Oct. 31.—Although the big guns used by the Germans have been the surprise of the war and are accredited with having caused the fall of Liege, Namur and Antwerp, some military experts in England question the wisdom of carrying such weapons into the field, regarding them as a burden which an army cannot afford to transport.

Col. F. N. Mander, discussing the heavy guns, says in the Standard:
"It would be interesting to obtain the exact facts and calculate what the policy of taking the 42 centimeter and 25 centimeter howitzers into the field really cost the Germans in loss of transport power for the food of the troops. I am willing to grant that the 42 centimeter weapon was admirably adapted for its purpose of destroying steel and concrete targets presented by the forts of Liege and Namur. But seeing that the weight of one of the shells is nearly equal to the weight of a whole square meal for one of their battalions, would not the available horsepower, whether mechanical or actual, have been far better employed in hauling food for men to the front in the first instance?"

England has constructed a more formidable weapon than the German howitzer, for use in the Crimean war, but not completed in time to go into the arsenal. The mortar is now at Woolwich. It was built in sections for transport and has a 25 inch bore and a bursting power charge of 850 pounds of gunpowder. It was tested at Plumstead marshes and a shell sent with a full powder charge penetrated 15 feet and blew out a crater 50 feet in diameter.

FRENCH AIRMEN DROP BOMBS ON GERMAN STAFF QUARTERS

London, Eng., Oct. 31.—French airmen from their base near Dunkirk today made reprisals on the Germans, a Daily Mail correspondent in northern France says under date of Friday. "A bomb throwing air team, consisting of six biplanes and two monoplanes, soared away to the southeast to a house near Dixmude, where the German headquarters staff had been established after it had been driven by the naval gun fire from a big house near the coast. The new headquarters was a chateau in wooded grounds."

"The aeroplane team carried 240 bombs. The machines flew, one after another, over the chateau and each dropped a number of the explosive missiles. Hardly had a half dozen of these fallen on the roof of the chateau before the state roofing and masonry was hurled about and flames broke out in the building."

"The German staff ran out of doors and hid in the woods and the aviators who had not previously flown over the chateau dropped bombs among the trees where the Germans had secreted themselves. The entire team of flyers returned safely to their Dunkirk base in the evening."
